

STORY 2: LET'S VISIT GRANDMA!

This is my grandmother's house (point to the house on the board).

Grandmother bakes delicious cakes:

On Monday she bakes a honey cake. – Grandma, can I have some honey cake? – Yes, of course, here you are – says Grandma (remove a part of the cake from the board)

On Tuesday she bakes an orange cake. – Grandma, can I have some orange cake? – Yes, of course, here you are – says Grandma (remove a part of the cake from the board)

On Wednesday she bakes an apple cake. – Grandma, can I have some apple cake? – Yes, of course, here you are – says Grandma (remove a part of the cake from the board)

On Thursday she bakes a lemon cake. – Grandma, can I have some lemon cake? – Yes, of course, here you are – says Grandma (remove a part of the cake from the board)

On Friday she bakes a cherry cake. – Grandma, can I have some cherry cake? – Yes, of course, here you are – says Grandma (remove a part of the cake from the board).

On Saturday she bakes a cream cake. – Grandma, can I have some cream cake? – Yes, of course, here you are – says Grandma (remove a part of the cake from the board)

On Sunday she bakes a chocolate cake. -Grandma, I can't have any chocolate cake - Why not, dear? - asks Grandma. - Because on Monday I had some honey cake, on Tuesday I had some orange cake, on Wednesday I had some apple cake, on Thursday I had some lemon cake, on Friday I had some cherry cake and on Saturday I had some cream cake. Today is Sunday and I can't have any more cake because I'M SICK!!
